

```
<html>
  <head>
    <title>
      Internet Terms
    </title>
  </head>
  <body>

      The World Wide Web is a service that runs on the internet and consists of a vast collection of interlinked, interactive documents stored on computers all over the world,m accessed via the Internet.

      A web page is a document, typically written in text and formatted using HTML (HyperText Markup Language) and is suitable for viewing on the WWW using a web browser.
      Web pages can include text, graphics, sound, video, embedded documents
      (such as PDF files) and links to other pages.

      A website consists of related web pages

      A hyperlink is a built-in connection on a web page used to navigate to a location or object on the same web page or another document or web page.

  </body>
</html>
```

file:///E:/GR11%20HTML/InternetTerms.html

Router Management Guild Wars 2 World of Tanks

The World Wide Web is a service that runs on the internet and consists of interactive documents stored on computers all over the world,m accessed via the Internet.

A web page is a document, typically written in text and formatted using HTML (HyperText Markup Language) and is suitable for viewing on the WWW using a web browser. Web pages can include text, graphics, sound, video, embedded documents (such as PDF files) and links to other pages.

A website consists of related web pages

A hyperlink is a built-in connection on a web page used to navigate to a location or object on the same web page or another document or web page.

